Lush forests, soaring cliffs and limitless scenic vistas fill your day as you join us for a journey along one of the world’s most spectacular routes. A must-see for those who visit Nova Scotia, the Cabot Trail (which runs along the northern tip of the island) is named for the explorer John Cabot who first landed here in 1497. Since that time, its unmatched beauty has drawn visitors from around the world. Immerse yourself in life along the trail with stops in the traditional village of Cheticamp; Cape Breton Highlands National Park; the fishing community of Neil’s Harbour; and the Gaelic College. From the spirit of the outdoors to the elegant “Old World” French, the Cabot Trail will have you enthralled from start to finish.
